Race Format:

2 x Heats (10 Laps)

Feature (30 laps)

- There are no guaranteed hot laps, however at the venue's discretion they may allow 3-4 hot laps prior to the commencement of each heat in the first round of heats. This will be advised at the driver's briefing.
- Format may change based on the number of actual signed in competitors which will be determined at the event
- There will be a maximum of 13 cars in the heat races with each car contesting two.
- Prior to going onto the track, it is the Driver's responsibility to check their starting position.
- Heat points will decide feature race starting positions. Ties will be separated by the fastest lap from heat racing from the timing system.

**As per the Australian Speedway Racing Rules and Regulations rule 4.3.1 -

Cars should take up their correct position on the dummy grid ready to race before entering the track. The Pit Marshall will cross cars over rows to close up any spaces as a result of scratchings. However once pushed off and on track, if a car is missing from a row then cars in that same row will move up and fill the gap**

Point Structure:

- Points will be awarded for the heat races. Point structure will be determined based on number of nominations.

Prize Money:

- TBC

Race Control:

This meeting will be conducted under the current Formula 500's Australia Inc. Supplementary Racing Regulations, Australian Speedway Racing Rules and Regulations and these Supplementary Regulations.
